Sched Information for Virtual Ludi 2020

Sched.com is an event schedule website through which attendees will access information and Zoom links for all events at Ludi this year. In Sched, attendees will be able to see the overall schedule for Ludi, bookmark the events they would like to attend, and click on each event to find more information and the corresponding Zoom link.

In order to receive access to the Ludi schedule on Sched, it is imperative that all students and adults attending Ludi provide an accurate, regularly-checked email address during registration. By 9 pm on November 8th, each attendee will be emailed an invite to join the CAJCL Ludi 2020 event on Sched, which will include the event password and instructions on creating a Sched account. This invite will be sent to the attendees' emails provided at registration, so attendees who have not provided an accurate email address will not be able to attend events at Ludi.

The site has been used for NJCL Convention in recent years, so some Ludi attendees may already be familiar with Sched and have an account.
